Muskoday First Nation Community Development Plan (CDP) Review and update

The Muskoday First Nation Comprehensive Community Development Plan (CCDP) was initiated in 2015. It was developed and prepared based on feedback obtained through various community meetings and events with stakeholders of all ages. The plan was completed in 2018. The CCDP outlines the general development needs of the community based on community consultation and feedback, and will act as a guiding document for leadership, staff and community groups to continue positive community development going forward for Muskoday First Nation.

As with any plan, it needs to be reviewed, revised and updated from time to time, to ensure that goals and objectives are met, new initiatives are identified, and the ongoing evolution and progression of the plan.

A series of community engagement consultation sessions, surveys, and data gathering will be taking place throughout the summer of 2024. Watch for posters in the coming months of July and August 2024.
